The Davis Conference Center is Air Mobility Command's state-of-the-art conference facility for fulfilling Air Force and Department of Defense conference needs at MacDill Air Force Base. The center is designed to support large single events, or simultaneous smaller meetings through a full compliment of conference, seminar, and meeting rooms. Spacious and contemporary, the Davis Conference Center provides conferees a full array of services to meet their needs.

Scheduling

The Davis Conference Center staff maximizes the use of the facility by scheduling conference rooms according to group size, audiovisual and/or communication requirements, and security classification. We support conference requests on a first come, first served basis, for DoD and other US government agencies. Conference rooms are reserved by telephone or e-mail.
